Rebellion Brothers Karamazov - God and the Good Life

One can love one's neighbors in the abstract, or even at a distance, but at close quarters it's almost impossible If it were as on the stage, in the ballet, where if beggars come in, they wear silken rags and tattered lace and beg for alms dancing gracefully, then one might like looking at them But even then we should not love them

Growing In Grace Series

everything about it is absolutely 100% free...it is the love of God In fact it is an insult to think that we can pay him back What an insult to be invited over to someone's home who has prepared you a meal out of kindness of their heart and then, as you are leaving, reach in your pocket and ask them how much you owe them

What is God's Love Language?

Just-love Yes, there are rules and traditions, and even laws about those traditions More importantly, Paul calls out that it is not enough to simply not kill, steal, or cheat - but challenges us to love our neighbors as ourselves because in that, the law will be fulfilled We cannot love and kill Love and Steal Love and cheat
